El oso pardo

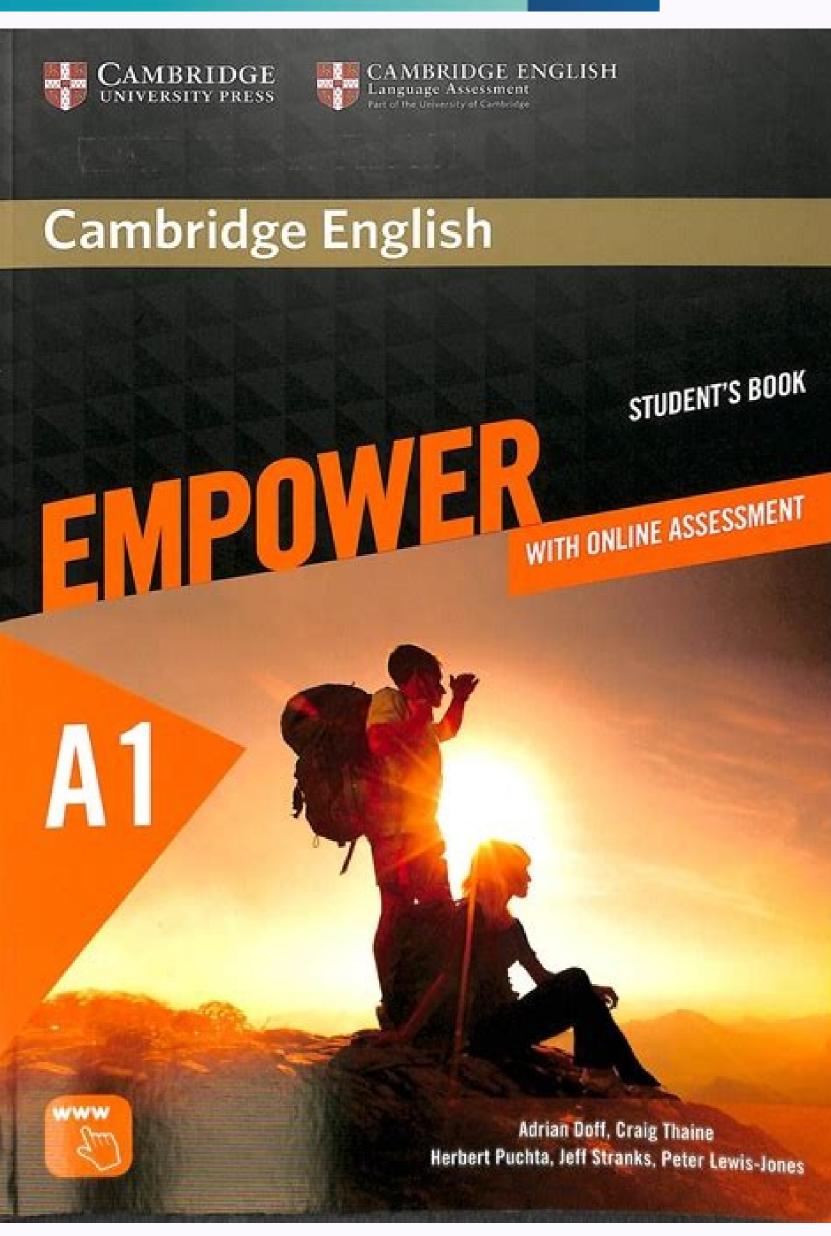

Los osos pardos viven en áreas poco habitadas, tranquilas y con escasa presencia humana. Su hábitat ideal lo constituye, en el caso del oso cantábrico, un mosaico de bosque formado por hayedos, robledales. Suelen vivir entre 25 y 30 años en libertad y 47 años en cautividad. Tienen unos colmillos puntiagudos y robustos, aptos para desgarrar carne, incisivos para cortar tallos y raíces, y muelas capaces de triturar vegetales. El oso es un carnívoro preparado para consumir también materia vegetal. Cuando corre, puede alcanzar los 60km/h en distancias cortas.

Animal habitualmente solitario, sólo suelen formar grupos en el caso de las hembras con sus cachornos, y estos pueden estar juntos meses e incluso algunos años cuando se independizan de su madre.
